Mrs. Joseph M. Freedman,
70 Somers St.,
Brooklyn,
N. Y.

10 45 A.M, July 25, 1918.

Darling Wifie:-

Sorry I couldn't go to N. Y. to-day so that I could see you. I won't be home to-night as I find it quite impossible to get off. I have a few minutes to spare, so am taking advantage of it & writing.

How is my sweetheart wifie? What time did you get up? Have a good breakfast? Hope you enjoyed the case I bought this morning.

Did Sadye hear from Dj? I wonder how he's getting on & how he finds it.

Will meet you at my mother's house to-morrow (Friday) night. Come as early as you can.

Will all my love to my my darling little wifie,

Lovingly
Hubby